- Dallas should share the news of this success story more widely so that others might follow their practices. The district should avoid simply mass producing new schools without making the needed investments in

